

Prepare for a job in crime analysis

This class is designed to help prospective crime analysts get hired. There are things you will learn in school, and then there will be things you will learn on the job, but what about everything else in between? What do you do after graduation? How do you even find a job? What is a portfolio, let alone what goes into one? In this course, we will bridge the gap between the classroom and the field to prepare you for that first day on the job. By the end of this course, you should have a cover letter, resume, and products you can use for a portfolio; you'll also walk away with an enhanced knowledge of the job search and application process in addition to tools to continue your career journey.

A format for your busy schedule

This class is held online over 12 weeks. You can complete the work whenever it fits your schedule! There are two live sessions (week 6 and 12) but they will be recorded if you can't attend live. If you get busy and can't complete the work, you can transfer to a later session without having to pay the full fee again.

The target audience for this course are students, aspiring analysts, and those looking to change careers.
