

"Intelligence-led policing will not happen unless you have good crime analysis."

Chief James D. Fox,
Newport News (VA) Police Dept

From Intelligence-Led Policing by Jerry Ratcliffe

In today's criminal justice environment, it can be difficult to keep up with the latest trends in policing. Whether a local, state or federal law enforcement agency calls its way of policing problem-oriented, COMPSTAT, intelligence-led, community-oriented, predictive, evidence-based or data-driven, all of these models have one critical thing in common: an analytical component. In other words, each one requires crime analysis in order to be effective.

The International Association of Crime Analysts can help practitioners and researchers alike to implement any of these concepts on a practical level.

2014 IACA Events

IACA Annual Training Conference

September 9-2
The Hyatt Regency Bellevue
Bellevue, Washington

IACP 2014 Conference (Vendor)

Come visit us at the 2014 International Chiefs of Police Conference, Booth #1108
October 25-28, 2014
Orlando, Florida

Stay tuned to our website for details on these exciting training opportunities!

The IACA Executive Board

Susan C. Hammen- Bair Analytics
president@iaca.net
Carolyn Cassidy- NY State Division of CJ Services
vpadmin@iaca.net
Ericka Jackson- Gainesville (FL) Police Dept
vp-membership@iaca.net
Dawn Clausius- Olathe (KS) Police Dept
secretary@iaca.net
Tamara Otley-Fullerton (CA) Police Dept
treasurer@iaca.net
Christopher W. Bruce—Lecturer/Researcher
pastpresident@iaca.net

- ◆ Professional Development
- ◆ Technical Assistance
- ◆ Certification
- ◆ Networking
- ◆ Literature
- ◆ Training

"The heart and soul of every department's success, in its principal obligation of crime control, is first-rate crime analysis."

Chief William Bratton,
Los Angeles Police Department

TRAINING

The IACA's professional training series provides analysts with the skills they need, offering classes in Tactical Analysis, Problem Analysis, Computer Applications, Crime Mapping and more.

CERTIFICATION

Our Certified Law Enforcement Analyst (CLEA) program raises the bar in professional development for working analysts.

EXPLORING CRIME ANALYSIS

Our 550-page book covers twenty important analytical skills and knowledge sets, authored by professionals in the field.

CONFERENCES

The IACA holds annual training conferences in the U.S. and internationally. Attend or send your analysts for unsurpassed hands-on training, presentations, networking and professional development.

From a 2012 conference presentation on DDACTS

What is the IACA?

We are a non-profit, 501(c)(3) professional association made up of criminal justice professionals. The IACA Executive Board and various committee positions are filled by individuals working in the field who volunteer their time to improve the profession. We offer training, literature, support, and other services at nominal rates to cover costs and support our members' agencies.

What is Crime Analysis?

Crime analysis is not just about data, mapping, and statistics. It is about interpreting data to help law enforcement to interfere with crime patterns, trends, series, hot spots and long-term problems.

Crime analysis is not about technology. It was a profession before any police agency had a computer, and to this day many of the skills necessary to be a good crime analyst have nothing to do with computer applications.

Crime analysis requires training. Just as your sworn officers must refresh their training and skills each year, so must crime analysts.

Crime analysis is not just for large agencies. Any police agency that experiences crime patterns and series, or has to deal with hot spots or chronic problems, or wants to allocate its resources more effectively, can benefit.

There are ways to implement crime analysis at your agency, even if your population is too small to justify a full-time position. Whatever the size of your agency, the IACA can help you develop a crime analysis program or get better use out of the one you already have.

Visit our website for resources:

www.iaca.net

- Articles • Analytical Product Samples • Publications
- Award-Winning Bulletins • Membership Database • News
- Tips & Tricks • Online Courses • White Papers Events and Training • Conference Presentations

Crime Analysis Unit Development Center

This area of the IACA website contains all the information you need to start a new crime analysis unit. Get started

The International Association of Crime Analysts
Serving the Crime Analysis Community Since 1990

Welcome to IACA.net

Search IACA.net

Follow the IACA

Share / Save

Translate this page

Featured Job

AB109 INTELLIGENCE ANALYST CONSULTANT (Concord, CA)

THE POSITION

Law enforcement agencies in Contra Costa County are seeking a consultant to perform analytical work related to County AB109 Public Safety Realignment. P...

View this item

Submit a job posting Meet an Analyst

Website Help

If you have any problems using the IACA website, please contact us.

International Association of Crime Analysts

9218 Metcalf, Box 364
Overland Park, KS 66212
iaca@iaca.net